The family of the "Rubiacea" to which the genus Coffee belongs is one of the largest and most varied of the plant families.

The blossoms are starry flowers borne on short stems, pure white and slightly resemble a single tuberosc. After the flowers, come little green fruits which in six or seven months develop into red coffee beans.

The yield varies greatly from 200 lbs. per acre to 17 lbs. per tree.

But everybody likes a good cup of Coffee. That is what you will have when you try some of our Banquet Blend at 35c or 3lbs. for $1.00.

Banquet Tea: Japan, English Breakfast, Celon, 25c and 50c packages.

Are You Encouraging Thrift In Your Children?

A practice fast gaining in popularity with thoughtful parents is that of starting a Savings Account for their children. Such accounts can be opened in the child's name or in the parent's name "in trust" for the child.

The wisdom of this is evident. The child is encouraged to save, and deposits made regularly quickly accumulate to a material sum. We solicit accounts of this nature and pay interest at 4 per cent per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Unique in the history of school bond elections, at least in this locality, was the one held in Milpitas a few days ago when $12,000 bonds for a new school building were carried without a dissenting vote. Would there were more places like the much maligned, much ridiculed Milpitas.

Do not forget the Hallowe'en party on the Grammar School grounds Saturday evening. A general good time is planned for both children and grown-ups. Festivities will begin at 7 o'clock, for the benefit of the younger generation. The club requests the donation of apples and nuts. A small quantity from each family will be ample. A collection will be taken to help the society in making the school building a little less unsightly on the inside.

N. & S. Club Supper

The N. and S. Club of Los Gatos Road had another of its delightful family suppers Monday in the J. F. Duncan garage.

Tables, beautiful with bowls of dahlias, were set for over sixty-five, and that number of hungry individuals sat down to a board groaning under the weight of good things. When those same people arose some time later the groans were still there but had been transferred.

After moving to the house a social time was enjoyed. Miss Jessie Lewis gave a couple of humorous readings, and Miss Marion Duncan two delightful solos. Then followed the "surprise" numbers, when various guests were called upon for extemporaneous stunts. A thoroughly good time was enjoyed by all present.

TOOK GOLDFISH TO CIRCUS

Woman Had No One to Leave Them With, So She Took Them Along.

"I went over to Ionia to do some shopping," explained our neighbor, "and I've been laughing ever since. There was an awful crowd on the streets, and it wasn't Saturday, so I didn't know what was the matter. But a clerk in a store told me that the circus was in town. To think I'd forgotten that—and missed the parade, too! But it was too late to think about circuses, so I finished my shopping and got some ice cream and then went to the station to get the 5:30 for home.

"There was quite a crowd in the depot—people going home from the circus, mostly. I noticed one woman all dressed in her best, and carefully holding a covered tin pail on her lap. Every now and then she would take the cover off, look in, and then put the cover on again. Then another woman came in and spoke to the woman with the pail:

"Well, did you have a good time?" she said. "And what are you taking home—something good to eat?"

"No," smiled the other, "I'll bet you can't guess what I've got in this pail, so I'll show you." And she removed the cover.

"Goldfish!" exclaimed the woman, taking a look. "Did you buy them here? I thought you had some at home."

"These are the ones I had at home. You see I wanted to go to the circus, and there was nobody at home to leave them with, so I brought them along."

"I went outside to laugh, and I laughed all the way home. It's a wonder she didn't bring the cow, too!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Christian Epic in Stone.

Just back of the line of battle in Alsace, within the zone where thoroughgoing destruction is threatened, another of the marvelous, most worth while works of civilization stands exposed to the varying chances of battle. This is the beautiful cathedral of Strassburg, an architectural glory which makes mock of modern satisfaction at the expense of earlier centuries. The enormous old minster, famed wherever joy in the ideal is felt, one of the choicest Gothic visions ever dreamed by a master mason, is a memory of ages when art was more a passion and religion, and less a means for preference and daily bread. Strassburg cathedral is a Christian epic in stone. Exquisite in proportion and detail, it rises, a great pile, out of the surrounding city. The spire of the minster is a masterpiece, excelled by no other steeple and equaled by but few. After finishing the one spire, builders never attempted to construct the proposed companion to it. Strassburg differs from other German cathedrals in that it possesses a greater width in proportion to its height. The building was begun in 1176.

German Ingenuity.

The German engineering corps has been successful in many instances in their efforts to build bridges when faced by a strong fire of small guns. In war it was found that bridge building was difficult except under cover of darkness, because the builders were always in the open and subject to the fire of the enemy on the river's farther bank. The German officers by the use of a new waterproof suit with a life preserver about its middle were able to send men into the water. The men pushed a floating bulwark of boards and steel before them. Under cover of this protection they paddled about and built the bridge.

Believe Oil Ship Sunk.

Great quantities of floating oil have been coming into St. Andrews Bay, and for more than ten miles deposits of oil were made along the coast. It is not petrol, but thicker oil, and has caused no little inconvenience to bathers. The worst sufferers are sea birds, scores of which had their feathers so clogged with oil as to render them helpless. Large numbers of both old and young birds have been driven ashore dead, while many others, alive, but unable to move, lie on the beach. The theory propounded is that an oil ship has been sunk not far off.—Montreal Herald.

Cat Sports a Glass Eye.

Several months ago Bill, an orange Persian cat belonging to Royal T. Gillett, lost his right eye during the course of a nocturnal prowling. The seemingly irreparable loss worried both cat and master, the cat losing its spirit and thus depreciating in value. Gillett began to figure that he would be forced to kill the animal, when a friend suggested that he replace the lost optic with one of glass.

Gillett acted on the suggestion and a Persian gets along nicely now. He regained his poise and seemed proud of his distinction.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

German Soldiers Have Athletic Hearts.

Strenuous life in the trenches of western war some of Europe is being lived by German physicians, who are increasing number of young soldiers coming up at hospitals with "athletic" a dilated condition of the heart, together with a high pulse rate. Of late years has been common among athletes and is due to

PROSPEROUS LITTLE REPUBLIC

THE MALECON, SANTO DOMINGO

THAT the European war has disturbed the economic and commercial situation in practically every civilized country in the world is a fact well known to everyone at all conversant with international trade conditions. Naturally the republics of the western hemisphere are no exception. Every one of them has felt the disastrous effects, but not in equal nor even in proportionately equal measure. Nearly all of them have experienced a large diminution in their export trade, and consequently a decrease in purchasing power and a resultant diminution in their imports. One remarkable exception is the Dominican Republic, says the Bulletin of the Pan-American union. That little country enjoys the distinction of having sold more of its products, in point of value, to the outside world during the year 1914 than it did during 1913. The increased value of its exports was only $118,840, but that it should have increased its sales at all is an astounding fact. Its purchases from other nations during the year were considerably less, but the net result is that the country has made a material financial gain.

The Dominican Republic is one of the smallest of the American republics, with an area of about 19,325 square miles. This is nearly equal to the combined areas of New Hampshire and Vermont. It has a population of between six and seven hundred thousand inhabitants. Haiti is the adjoining republic and the two together comprise the island called by bay is the town of Samana, and at the head is Sanchez, connected with the interior by the Sanchez & Moca railway, a Scotch enterprise, for a distance of 40 miles.

San Pedro de Macoris is the sugar port of the republic. In and around Macoris there are thousands of acres of land devoted to the raising of sugar cane, and millions of dollars of American capital are invested in this enterprise. The plantations are all equipped with the most modern machinery, and the cane is cultivated and gathered by colored laborers from the English and Danish West Indies.

Relics in the Capital.

Seventy miles from La Romana and 40 miles from Macoris is Santo Domingo City, the capital of the republic. In Santo Domingo we find ourselves in the midst of modern civilization, surrounded by innumerable relics that carry us back to the fifteenth century. Here can be seen the ruins of the first church, San Nicolas, built some time in the early part of 1500, and three or four years ago the mahogany taken from these ruins was in a perfect state of preservation. Here, as claimed by the Dominicans, can be seen the bones of Christopher Columbus, left by mistake by the Spaniards when they evacuated the island, and who removed from the crypt in the cathedral to Havana the remains of a brother of Columbus, thinking they were taking the bones of the great discoverer.

The ruins of the house of Diego Colon, the son of Christopher, are still standing, where, according to the first Spanish discoverers "Isla Española" and now sometimes called "Santo Domingo" and sometimes "Haiti." Within the limits of what is now the territory of the Dominican Republic was located by Columbus the first settlement of Europeans in the new world. This settlement was called "Isabella," after the queen of Castile, the friend and patroness of Columbus. The first Spanish settlement, like Jamestown, the first English settlement, no longer exists except as a ruin. In fact, "Isabella" disappeared a few years after its foundation. The modern city of Puerto Plata is located near the former site of the old settlement. The oldest existing settlement of Europeans in the western world is likewise located in the Dominican Republic. This is the capital city, Santo Domingo.

One of World's Richest Spots.

The Dominican Republic, in fact the whole island, is naturally one of the richest spots in the world. The soil is remarkably fertile and produces luxuriously. On the north coast, in the province of Monte Cristi, near the Haitian border, the soil is well adapted for cotton raising, and there is a very considerable acreage devoted to this industry, backed by American and English capitalists. The cotton is of a fine quality, and the yield per acre is much greater than that in our southern states.

Puerto Plata, an important port of the north, is a town of some 10,000 or 12,000 inhabitants, connected by a railway, running south, with the towns of the fertile Caibo region—Santiago de los Caballeros, La Vega, and Moca. These towns are located in the great agricultural regions of the republic, where the famous cacao bean is cultivated. Tobacco also is grown to a considerable extent, and has had until recently a ready market in Hamburg. Other ports of importance are Samana and Sanchez, in the beautiful Samana bay. This bay is famous for its size and picturesque scenery. It is about 25 miles long by 8 miles wide, with a depth of water sufficient to float the largest battleships. Our North Atlantic squadron has frequently gone there for maneuvers. At the entrance to the history, a court was established whose entertainments rivaled in splendor those we read of in the Arabian Nights. On the bank of the river still stands the massive ceiba tree to which were tied the caravels of Columbus. In Santo Domingo City Columbus was put in chains and sent home to Spain a prisoner in disgrace. The city is built on the west bank of the Ozama river and is under the administration of the department of public works. A magnificent macadam boulevard, bordered on either side with native elms, interspersed with tropical foliage, extends from the center of the city for 20 miles in the direction of Bani, the birthplace of the famous Cuban hero, Maximo Gomez. On this same boulevard can be seen the well-preserved ruins of the Fort San Geronimo, which in early days withstood an attack of the English under Drake. The entrance from the town to this boulevard is through an arch constructed by the government in memory of those who fell fighting for the independence of the country, and the arch bears the inscription "Dulce et Decorum est pro Patria Mori."

Life at the capital, while not as fast and gay as at the larger cities of the South, is still very agreeable. There are two well-equipped and conducted clubs, Club Union and Casino de la Juventud, where there are frequent social entertainments. Automobiles are plentiful and the ride from the capital to San Cristobal along the new macadam boulevard is most attractive. Automobiles can be procured for $4 an hour. There are several hotels in the city, of which the Hotel Francis is the best known. There is quite a large foreign colony at the capital and in Macoris and Puerto Plata. The whole trip from New York, including a stop at all ports, is about eight or nine days.

A very erroneous impression prevails that the climate of Santo Domingo is unhealthy. From its geographical position it cannot be unhealthy. The winds have a clean sweep across the island, and there has been no serious epidemic there since the cholera outbreak some time in the early sixties.

IN CANNING SEASON

SECRET OF SUCCESS IN "PUTTING UP" SUPPLIES.

Absolute Sterilization Must Be Obtained—Best and Easiest Methods of Getting the Best Results From Fruit That Is Used.

If anybody appreciates the kindness of Mother Nature it is the practical housekeeper. This is especially true in summertime when by her bountiful store of fruits and vegetables she increases the housekeeper's store at little cost and contributes much to reduce her labor.

There are several methods of canning, and the secret of success in each is absolute sterilization. The best and easiest methods of canning are cooking the fruits in jars in an oven; cooking the fruits in jars in a steamer or in boiling water, and stewing the fruit before it is put into the jars.

Glass is the most satisfactory jar to use in canning. Glass jars are becoming so universally in favor that they are taking the place of tin cans for everything; even for tomatoes. They are more economical than tin, for although the glass costs more in the beginning, it lasts and can be used over and over again. While there are many kinds of jars, the preference should usually be given to those with wide mouths. In canning fruits or jelly it is important that the fruits or berries should not be over-ripe. Fruit for canning should be fresh, solid and not over-ripe. If over-ripe some of the spores may survive the boiling and fermentation takes place in a short time. In preparing the fruit remove all stems, then peel with a silver knife, core or remove the seeds or pits as the case may be. Peaches, pears or apples may be kept from discoloring if they are dropped as they are pared into cold water to which a little vinegar or lemon juice may be added.

Canned Pears.—Twenty-four Bartlett pears, eight cupfuls water, two cupfuls sugar.

Bartlett pears are the best for canning. Put the water and sugar into a preserving kettle. Let the sirup come to boiling point and skim off the froth if any rises. While the sirup is heating carefully halve, peel and core the pears, being careful not to use those that are over-ripe or imperfectly shaped.

Drop pieces into a basin of cold water until all are pared. Put the halved pears into the boiling sirup, but do not stir. Take a large roasting pan with handles and place in it as many sterilized canning jars as it will hold. Pour some tepid water in the pan to a depth of about two inches, and place the pan on the side of the stove. The water will get hot and keep the jars warm. Sterilize the rubber rings and covers. By this time the fruit will be boiling. When the pears commence to lose their hard whiteness they are ready to take off. Lift out pieces separately with a spoon and put them into the hot jars. Fill jars and cover with the sirup; fill even with the top, put the rings and covers on and screw tight.

For Cream Dressings.

All white or cream dressings are made by blending the butter with the flour, then stirring it rapidly into the boiling milk. Use white pepper when making the dressing and boil it in a double boiler. Keep it warm, and thin with cream if too stiff when done, or fold in the white of egg, whipped to a stiff froth.

A teaspoonful of vinegar to a quart of flour if added with the ice water, gives the much-desired flaky appearance to fruit pies.

Tomato Pickle.

Six pounds of green tomatoes, if very large, cut in pieces. Put them into strong brine for 24 hours, drain them very dry. Put them in a stewing pan, cover with vinegar to which has been added one pound of sugar, one-quarter pound long pepper, one-quarter pound allspice, one-quarter pound cloves and one-quarter pound cinnamon. Simmer till tender, but do not let them boil.

German Potato Klosees.

One pint mashed potatoes, mixed in two beaten eggs, one pint of flour, one even tablespoonful of salt. Form into small flat cakes (same as fishballs), cook in boiling water about ten minutes. When first put in kettle, stir around until they rise to the top of water. Very nice with roast of veal or any nice brown gravy. Good warmed over in butter, cut up.

Stale Bread Fritters.

Cut the bread in slices, about a third of an inch thick, fry in fat, from which a faint bluish smoke is rising, and when each piece is fried on one side turn it over and spread the browned side with marmalade or jam. When cooked, lift out and sprinkle with caster sugar mixed with a little cinnamon.

Fruit Fluff.

To every pint of chopped peach, banana or pineapple allow one pint of water, six eggs and one pound of sugar; beat eggs until light, then add other ingredients and cook until thick as custard. Strain, set dish in pan of cold water and beat until cold. Freeze and serve with a sirup like a sundae.

Chocolate Rice.

One cupful of rice boiled until tender. Make a sirup of one cupful sugar, one square chocolate; pour over rice and stir. Put in a mold to cool and serve with whipped cream.

Hats for Every Face

In the displays of new millinery that are of paramount interest just now women complain that the great variety in style and design in new hats is bewildering. There are so many shapes to choose from! Shall the hat be made of velvet or hatter's plush or felt or velour or fur or selected from among the innumerable combinations of these and other fabrics? What is the wisest choice in a season not dominated by a few styles?

Such a season leaves the individual to her own resources in making a choice. But it affords her a chance to exercise fine judgment in suiting her millinery to her own particular type. There are few freakish styles, in spite of this wonderful variety in hats, and there is a hat for every face.

One cannot go wrong in choosing velvet or any of the materials mentioned. Colors are dark and rich, and trimmings correspond. Metallic laces and braids, elaborate beadwork, silk and velvet flowers (and those covered with tinsel), ribbons of high luster, and rich ostrich plumes, are set off by the hats of beautiful and sedate colors that form the best of backgrounds for them. Fur and the most elaborate and carefully made fancy feathers, or the peculiar new cut steel ornaments provide many novelties in the way of trimmings, unlike any that have gone before.

Three of the new patterns are shown in the group pictured here. The small hat at the top has a coronet of velvet which is wide at the back but narrowed to a small upturned brim at the front. A brilliant corded silk covers the crown and the inside of the coronet, forming a binding about the edge of the hat. Two smart, upstanding plumes at the back, taken with the shape of the hat, suggest a military mode.

At the left a wide-brimmed hat with soft crown is made of velvet. The brim is curved in gentle and graceful lines. A metallic braid and a large flower, which looks like the ariste of filigree, make up the simple and very effective trimming.

At the right a felt hat faced with velvet shows another of the picturesque wide-brimmed models. In this hat the crown is higher. Wide moire ribbon and silver lace adorn the unusual shape, in which the brim is deeply slashed at each side.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

Boil the Meat.

When making croquettes of left-over meat it is much better to boil the meat until it is very tender.

Two Play Frocks in Tub Materials

Summer or winter, the play and school frocks of the very small girl are made of materials that can be washed. Durable linen in the natural or in gay colors, wash flannel, pique, gingham, chambray, kindergarten cloth, all present themselves to the hand of the seamstress, in plain plaid and striped designs. Very little trimming is used and little girls' frocks must depend for their style on color, cut and combinations of plaid or striped with plain material.

But if good taste prohibits much trimming on the clothes of the little miss it encourages a bit of pretty needlework and oddities in cut. So long as the designer does not depart from simplicity or unbroken lines she may indulge her fancy for unusual-shaped yokes, sleeves and yoke in one, and quaint effects in finishing touches.

The two little frocks pictured here are of the everyday sort that mothers are making up in heavy linens and other wash fabrics. In them the little girl may romp along with her brothers; they are designed for much wear. At the left a plain dress is shown made of dark blue linen with collar, cuffs and belt of tan linen. It has a short opening at the front with eyelets worked in tan floss in a close, even buttonhole stitch on each side. It slips on over the head and fastens by means of narrow ribbon in black or dark blue laced through the eyelets. A bit of needlework appears on the cuffs and collar in a small embroidered disk of the same size as the eyelets.

A dress of striped pique or other striped material is pictured at the right. It is made with a set-on belt, and two plaits appear at each side, in the skirt portion, below the belt. The collar and cuffs in white are edged with a plain buttonhole-stitched scallop, and this simple edging finishes the plait which covers the front opening.

A double row of round buttons is set down the front, and two larger buttons of the same kind fasten through buttonholes in the ends of the belt, which is stitched to the dress only along the upper edge at the sides and back. This makes it convenient to launder the dress. JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

"Say, Mary, hasn't that young man down there a home to go to?"
"I guess not, dad, and what's more, so far he hasn't shown any signs of asking me to start one for him."

At the Marshall home, there was much discussion of women suffrage and other political questions, and little Vera had always been an interested listener. "What will you do when you can vote?" a visitor asked her. "Help to put candy on the free list," was the unexpected reply.—Youth's Companion.

Philosophically Considered.

"I wouldn't marry you if you were the last man on earth!" said the girl.
"Well," replied the young man who takes everything seriously, "if I were the last man on earth I'd be mourning so many friends and relatives that I don't suppose I'd feel much like taking part in a wedding, anyhow."—Washington Star.

WHERE REAL TROUBLE BEGAN

Argument Between Hogan, Casey and O'Brien Progressed Smoothly Until Stranger Butted In.

When a man just naturally wants trouble it is mighty easy to find an excuse for making it. According to Mike Hogan, Casey and O'Brien were having an argument of their own. It had progressed to the extent that each had forgotten what it was about originally, and they were wholly oblivious of the gathering crowd until an urbane and genteel person in a frock coat put in.

"Come, come, my man," he said, gently plucking Casey by the sleeve. "You don't want to fight. I can tell it by your looks. Your face is too benign."

"Two be nine! Two be nine, is it, ye scout?" bellowed Casey. "Me face is two be nine, is it?"
And there was where the real trouble began.—Louisville Times.

Important Inquiry.

"Father," said the small boy, "couldn't George Washington tell a lie?"

"That statement has been seriously made, my son."
"Well, what did he do when his folks had unexpected company and he was told to say he didn't want any pie for dessert?"

Hopeful Future.

"To tell you the truth," said the man who is ostentatiously cheerful, "the hotter the climate is the better I like it."

"I envy you and your calmness of mind," replied the sardonic person, "and trust, for your own comfort, that your ideas of future punishment are strictly orthodox."

The Eternal Feminine.

Pretty Daughter—Papa, I'd like to give a party next week.

Papa—Why, my dear, you gave one only last week. Do you think it necessary to entertain your friends so often?

Pretty Daughter—But this is not to entertain my friends; it's to snub my enemies.

Only Difference.

"One of my daughters has tonsillitis," exclaimed Mr. Growcher, "and the other has sprained her wrist."

"That's hard luck."
"Yes. Nothing seems to work out the way it ought to. The girl who sprained her wrist sings, and the one with a sore throat plays the piano."

The Two Orders.

Business Manager—Well, how many orders did you get yesterday?

Traveler—I got two orders in one place.
B. M.—That's the stuff! What were they?

T.—One was to get out and the other was to stay out.

A Correction.

Friend (Intending to compliment)—I heard somebody say the other day, Mr. Naggs, that your wife was a fine conversationalist.

Naggs—She's nothing of the sort.
Friend—No?
Naggs—She hates conversation. She's a monologist.

UNKIND.

Ella—He says that he shall never forget me.
Stella—No; you have one of those indelible faces.

New Record by Fisheries Bureau.

The commissioner of fisheries, under date of June 10, advises that not only will the output of the fish-cultural operations of the bureau of fisheries during the fiscal year ending June 30 surpass previous records but for the first time in many years there has been a sufficient supply of black bass to meet all current demands for both public and private waters. All outstanding applications for black bass will be filled. Some of these have been held over for several years for lack of a sufficient supply of the fish. Among recent deliveries of this fish have been 10,000 to a large artificial lake at Austin, Tex., formed by the damming of the Colorado river, and at the station whence the fish came a large supply is now on hand. It is the policy of the bureau to distribute each year an increasingly large proportion of fish which have been retained at the hatcheries until they reach the fingerling or yearling stages, which means that the output, being more mature, is better able to care for itself and is not so subject to the depredations of natural enemies.

MRS. THOMSON TELLS WOMEN

How She Was Helped During Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I am just 52 years of age and during Change of Life I suffered for six years terribly. I tried several doctors but none seemed to give me any relief. Every month the pains were intense in both sides, and made me so weak that I had to go to bed. At last a friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and shall always recommend it as a woman's friend. You are at liberty to use my letter in any way."—MRS. THOMSON, 649 W. Russell St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to carry women so successfully through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

BUSINESS INSTINCT OF GIRL

Wanted Proposal of Marriage Made On Sunday Renewed Because It Was Not Legally Binding.

"George," said the beautiful girl as she nestled close to him, "the last time you called you proposed."

"I did, sweet one."
"And I accepted you."
"You did, love."

"I presume, George," she went on, in her most fascinating manner, "that you look upon me merely as a foolish, thoughtless girl, but—but—"

"How can you think so, pet?" he interrupted.

"But," she went on in a more businesslike way, "I have something of the business instinct of the new woman in me, and—and—I shall have to ask you to repeat the proposal again tonight. The last time you called it was Sunday, and contracts made on that day, I learn, are not legally binding."—New York Times.

A Veritable Solomon.

"How is it," asked the young man, "that of all the people who come to you for advice, none ever appear to go away dissatisfied?"

"It is probably because I am a student of human nature," answered the Shelbyville sage. "When a man comes to me for advice, I proceed to find out what kind he wants, and then give it to him."

Fair, But Not Fare.

"What line are you on now?" asked the fair maid in the parlor scene, of her admirer, who chanced to be a street car conductor.

"Just at present," replied the register manipulator, as he slid toward the other end of the sofa and his arm stole around her waist, "I'm on the Belt line."

DECLINED WITHOUT THANKS.

Wirehead—Do you think she will return your love?
Feathertop—Probably. She told me she had no use for it.

Only One.

"No, I didn't come up to business yesterday," said the stout man in the corner of the carriage. "The last of my daughters was getting married so I had to give her away."

"Really? Who was the happy man?" inquired a polite fellow passenger.

"I was," said the parent emphatically.

What Mother Eve Missed.

"The thirst for strong drink," said the man with the crimson beak, "is due to the original sin."

"How do you figure that out?" asked the party of the dense part.

"I haven't time to go into details," answered he of the auburn nose, "but anyway strong drink is good for snake bites."

The Aggrieved Pedestrian.
"Confound Chugson! The stiff-necked upstart!"

"Why, he bowed politely to you when he passed just now in his motor car."

"Sure! Bowed and then put on speed before I could ask him for a lift."

The Loser.

Little Bobbie listened with deep interest to the story of the Prodigal Son. At the end of it he burst into tears.

"Why, what's the matter, Bobbie?" exclaimed his mother.

"I'm—I'm sorry for that poor ill-calaf," he sobbed. "He didn't do nuffin!"

Just the Thing.

"Here's a news item says the United States is to turn out a submarine which can go 5,500 miles and cross the ocean in one supply of fuel."

"It is the G-3."
"I'd call a submarine like that the 'Gee Whizz!'"

"Did you ask a military ball?" asked a lady of an army veteran.

"No, my dier. 'In a military ball, what do you think?"

"We must be nice to my rich uncle. He may leave us some money. He says that he yearns for a slice of home-made bread."

"That's easy," responded the young wife. "Our baker sells it."

Quite a Few.

"I have just been reading the Constitution of the United States."

"Well?"
"And I was surprised to find out how many rights a fellow really has."

Hydroplane a Freak.

The hydroplane of the day is a freak in every sense of the word. The various types of underbody construction are designed to give the boats lifting power, to lessen the draft under speed, and, consequently, the displacement—in other and plainer words, to lessen the amount of water that has to be pushed aside in the endeavor to make high speed. The hydroplane is the outcome of years of study by the best naval architects and marine engineers in freak-boat construction. Thousands of dollars are spent annually on these freaks, but many are thrown on the junk pile and the effort repeated. All of these boats are overpowered, as one would consider the needs of an ordinary boat. But extra power is added to gain a little extra speed. Thus one of the Atlantic coast owners is this year duplicating his power by adding a second motor to a 45-horsepower with the hope of adding an extra ten miles an hour to the speed. This may be termed freakishness, yet in the quest for the 60-mile all sorts of freakish things are being undertaken.

Don't Worry About

That Itching Rash

Don't worry any more about that itching skin-trouble. Just spread a little resitol ointment over the sick skin and the itching disappears as if you had simply wiped it away!

And—even more important—this soothing, healing ointment gets right to the source of the trouble and rarely fails to clear away every trace of the unsightly, tormenting eruption.

Doctors have prescribed resitol ointment for over twenty years, and thousands owe their clear, healthy skins to its use. It contains nothing that could injure or irritate the tenderest skin. Sold by all druggists.—Adv

The public is cordially invited. Mr. Crow has spoken at several meetings in different parts of the valley and his talks have been greatly appreciated.

W. W. Powell had a peculiar experience this week while coming home over the Saratoga summit road. When near the summit with his machine a large antlered buck walked out into the highway and disputed the right-of-way. Not being of a quarrelsome disposition, Mr. Powell was compelled to stop his machine until this new fangled hold-up artist had given him the once-over and decided that the booty was poor. In fact the law was with the buck but he didn't know it. Then Powell "passed the buck."

W. W. Stewart recently traded his fine home on Santa Clara-Los Gatos road to A. F. Friese of Turlock, for his ranch near that city. If Mrs. Stewart continues as well as at present they expect to make the exchange next week. The Stewart family has lived here for several years, and during that time has made a wide circle of friends, who regret that they have decided to leave Campbell. However they will take with them many good wishes for their happiness and success in their new location, and as that form of ranching is not new to them, success will undoubtedly be theirs.

Campbell Boys Won

In the first league game of the basketball season, the Campbell High team defeated the Live Oak boys from Morgan Hill in a very one-sided game.

Only at times were the "Acorns" able to get together long enough to make a goal altho our boys put up a rather ragged display on such occasions. The score 12 to 65 tells the tale.

The girls' game was one of another color and served as a good practice game for our team. Morgan Hill has a good girl's team and should carry off the league banner. We have material for a good team.

W. C. T. U.

Come and bring a friend.

Entertain Neighbors

The Congregational Guild were hostesses to the M. E. Ladies' Aid Thursday afternoon. Decorations were along fall and Hallowe'en lines,—corn, pumpkins, black cats and witches in abundance.

Orange streamers were everywhere over the tables, which all had Hallowe'en table cloths and favors.

The front part of the church was arranged for reception rooms and was very pretty with autumn flowers and vines.

A short program of music readings and games with a generous allowance of time for "visiting," was followed by refreshments.

In accordance with a reading that Rev. Lloyd gave when the Aid entertained the Guild, the ladies served "Apple pie and Cheese," the pie enriched with a layer of ice-cream; and coffee.

The occasion was a pleasant one for both organizations.

Cornish and Squab Pie.

There are few, if any, conger eels in American waters; they are to some people a most unpleasant looking fish. Cornwall, England, esteems them highly and makes them into pie with much cream and parsley. Cornwall, Mrs. Florence Coalb Albrecht explains in a National Geographic society bulletin, makes any number of things into pie and calls the product invariably "squab pie," though all things but squabs are among the materials. "Squab pie" gave rise to the following Cornish story repeated by the writer:

"The devil came one day to the banks of the Tamar; the rippling river that divides Devon and Cornwall, and looked over at the rocky land beyond. His majesty considered the swift current and shook his head. 'No!' he said finally. 'No, that's no place for me! Every one who goes there is turned into a saint and everything else into squab pie. I'm fit for neither one nor the other!' And he stayed in Devon."

What the Duke Said.

The Duke of Wellington, of course, never said "Up, guards, and at 'em!" at Waterloo, but it is generally known how near he came to saying it. Sir Herbert Maxwell in his biography of the duke points out what is the probable origin of the pleasing legend. Late on the afternoon of that memorable 18th of June the First and Second battalions of the Third chassseurs were foremost in the attack on Mount St. Jean. They had reached a crossroad unaware that British troops were lying behind the wayside banks according to orders to remain prone when under fire, but not actually engaged. Then at the proper moment Wellington's voice was heard, "clear above the storm," "Stand up, guards!" It was Mailland's brigade of guards that thus "stood up" and with a victorious rush swept the chassseurs out of the combat.—London Mirror.

Thick and Thin Shells.

There are several kinds of high explosive shells, which have been designed for various purposes. For instance, there are the shells, the case of which is very thin, so that their capacity for containing explosive may be increased. These explode instantly at the slightest contact and are used as mines, or, in other words, they cause damage not by the impact of their mass but by the fierceness of the explosion. Another kind of explosive shell is made by increasing the thickness of the steel case and reducing the charge of explosive. The explosion of this missile is calculated to take place a little after contact. This type is used for the destruction of solid defenses, like walls, earthen works, etc., as the thickness of the case and the slowness of explosion permit them to penetrate the fabric before exploding.—London Standard.

The Man in the Iron Mask.

The Bastille, whose fall July 14, 1789, marked the birth of French liberty, was built in 1360 to defend Paris against the English. It is as a state prison, however, that the grim fortress is remembered and chiefly on account of the mystery of one romantic prisoner, the "Man in the Iron Mask," who was "interned" there in 1679 and died in 1703. As to who the prisoner actually was scarcely two authorities agree, but among the almost innumerable "claimants" have figured the Duc de Vermandois, son of Louis XIV.; the Duc de Beaufort, a supposed son of Anne of Austria by the Duke of Buckingham; a twin brother of Louis XIV. and Count Matthioli, secretary of state to Charles III. The last two may be termed the favorites.

Come to the M. E. Aid supper. Individual meat pies, and other good things, at 25c. From 5:30 to 7, tonight.

You should see that "Roseopolit" initial stationery at Smith's. It makes a most acceptable gift.

Does Baseball Follow the Flag?

Does baseball—one step in rear of the constitution follow the flag?

United States Marine Corps representatives say that it does, and old B. B. is the greatest single factor in captivity for the perpetuation of peace, according to their views.

The bat, ball and glove form part of a Marine's expeditionary equipment, and it has been said that he carries baseball paraphernalia in his knapsack side by side with implements of a more serious nature. The Marine has been sent to all parts of the world on errands of duty, and everywhere he has carried the irresistible game with him. But, unlike other missionaries carrying the good word in dark places, he hasn't gotten himself into trouble through it, and he rates the glorious old pastime as 100 per cent efficient in the cause of peace.

A grizzled old "soldier of the sea", who has played the game in every clime, gave expression yesterday to the following when interviewed at the Brooklyn Marine Barracks: "Canned Caruso or the Symphony in F may have charms to soothe the savage breast, but when it comes to 'piping down' a hostile 'homebre' in his native lair, show him a man on third in the ninth inning with two down, and the score a tie. We've done it in China, Guam, the Philippines, Alaska and everywhere that a man may go, and it has always made for peace. Give your Uncle Samuel a few thousand more Marines with plenty of good baseball players to fill the ranks, and the warring nations of the world will be cemented closer together with the bonds of true sportsmanship."

Congregational Church

"The Friendly Church just around the Corner."

The theme for Sunday morning will be: "God's Modern Call for Volunteers." Talk to the boys and girls on "Little Burglars."

C. E. and Sunday-school as usual with a cordial invitation for all.

In the evening Miss Clark the Y. W. C. A. Secretary of the Exposition at San Francisco, will be here and tell what the Y. W. C. A. has done, and is doing, for the 3,000 girls and women who have been working on the Zone and in the various palaces at the Exposition.

Miss Clark has a charming personality and is a most interesting speaker. This will be a union meeting as the M. E. church dismisses to join with us in this service. Miss Clark comes under the auspices of the Searchlights, who are always on the lookout for good things to bring to Campbell.

GEO. E. ATKINSON, Pastor.

Methodist Church Notes

There was a good attendance of the ladies at the meeting of the Aid with Mrs. Preston last Thursday. Our ladies were entertained at the Congregational church by the Guild this week.

Mrs. H. W. Williams is now at her home on San Tomas road slowly recovering her strength after the operation at Merritt Hospital in Oakland. There are very encouraging reports from Mrs. M. J. Palmer also, who underwent an operation recently at the O'Connor Sanitarium.

Remember the supper to be served by the ladies at the church this (Friday) evening, and the first of the League course of entertainments which will follow. Supper from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock, and the musical at 8:00.

Sunday is the date for the formal opening of the campaign to vote California dry in 1916. The pastor will speak on the subject in the morning, and the temperance committee will have petitions ready for signatures to initiate the movement. The churches of the state will endeavor to secure 100,000 signatures the first day. Let us do our part.

Miss Schaaf of Los Gatos will lead the League meeting this week, Miss May Farley taking her place at Los Gatos. There will be no evening service following the League meeting, that our people may hear Miss Clark at the Congregational church.

The Official Board will meet Wednesday evening at eight o'clock.

Thursday evening, Dec. 23rd, has been fixed as the date for the Christmas exercises of the Sunday-school.
